Study the transplantation of MSCs and regeneration of skeletal muscle using the F344 rat model. The rat was selected as the host model. MSCs derived from bone marrow were isolated and characterized. The experiment was divided into four groups: (1) MSCs (2) no transplant, (3) MSCs mixed with Matrigel, and (4) MSCs transplantation. The transplants were performed in the gastrocnemius muscle. Functional recovery was evaluated by measuring the grip strength. Differentiation of transplanted MSCs was identified using immunohistochemistry. The expression of MyoD and myogenin was examined by reverse transcription polymerase chain reaction (RT-PCR) and immunohistochemistry. Functional recovery was improved by MSC transplantation. Both the early and late differentiation of the skeletal muscle were identified. The MSCs had migrated and were distributed in the gastrocnemius muscle 14 days after transplantation. The MSCs maintained a high expression of the muscle-specific myosin heavy chain (MHC) protein. MyoD and myogenin expression in the MSCs group was higher than the normal group. Functional recovery of the muscle was improved by MSCs transplantation in the rat gastrocnemius muscle. Q: How to reduce the parts that can be assembled If I need to buy a wheelbarrow, what should I look for? Is there an easy way to reduce the parts in the choices of wheelbarrow I have? The things that makes a wheelbarrow difficult to assemble I am able to assemble the handle, the wheel set and the wheel. I don't know if the wheel length will match, the wheel width has to be narrow which make the wheel difficult to rotate and the wheel has to be thick which makes it difficult to lift.
